Letters to the editor

In your October feature, The pull from China: Myths and realities, you stated that "Most firms interviewed in English: at Moores Rowland Mazars all interviews were conducted in Putonghua." Our firm would like to clarify that our interviews are conducted in English, Cantonese and Putonghua, with Putonghua being a part, but not all of an interview. Paul She would also like to clarify that he has not applied for a two-year secondment to Beijing as described in the article, only that he might apply if there is an opportunity.

In an effort to increase use of the Institute's Discussion Forum, should it be open to all, rather than only to members? In some cases members may not want to wish to reveal their identity but nevertheless have important views to share. The Institute already has a strong disclaimer clause and should reserve the right to remove abusive or problematic content.

會計界更高透明度及積極

新一期香港會計師公會A Plus, 看見資深會計師黃匡源, 致函立法會會計界功能組別代表譚香文議員的公開信, 他建議譚議員退下《財務匯報局條例草案》委員會主席, 同時刊登譚議員的回應。這官方刊物, 罕有登這類較尖銳文章。另一有趣是公會回應及承認6月號封面人物印刷倒轉了。會計界在市民心中, 向來較少發言及保守。但去年立法會競選, 會計界參選人數是功能組別之冠; 年中選委會補選, 投票人數亦是最多。我對同業積極參加社會事務及更透明度作風感欣慰。

PRAISE IN PRINT

A Plus got some nice coverage in a recent issue of am730. Referring to the exchange of letters between Peter Wong and Mandy Tam in the September issue, the paper claimed this "marked a breakthrough of the accounting profession... in the past [the magazine] was regarded as silent and conservative but it's now becoming more transparent and active in social affairs."

NAMES FOR THE CPA BAND

Thanks for your suggestions for the name of the CPA band, which performed so memorably at the Institute's annual dinner on 14 October. Our favourite suggestions, in no particular order, were:

► Number Fun
Daley Mok, Homantin

► A Sharp
Paul Rigby, Lamma

► The Accoustic Accountants
Harry Yung, Wanchai

► Abbacus
Francis Leung, Wanchai
