WORK & PLAY: EDITOR'S PICKS

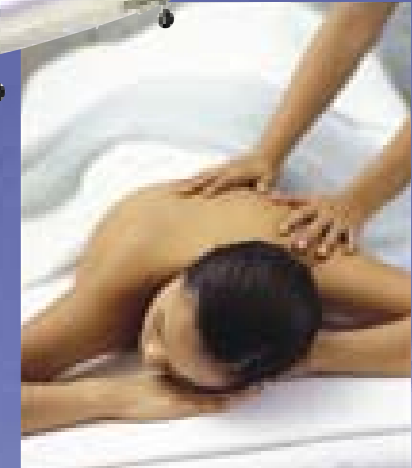

High flyers

Rise above it all with these ingredients for the jet-set lifestyle.

The icon of high-flying cool

What better way to evoke a cool, jet-setting image than by sporting a classic pair of Ray-Ban Aviator sunglasses? Ray-Ban, originally founded in 1937 to supply sunglasses to the United States Air Force, knows a thing or two about looking good in the sky or on the ground. Find a pair of Ray-Ban Aviators RB 3025 at Hong Kong optical retailers for HK$820.

A+ Attitude is everything!

Get your wings

Find out why hot shots like Tom Cruise, Brad Pitt and John Travolta spend their free time in the skies by joining Hong Kong's Aviation Club and learning to fly! You'll develop a new personal confidence when you take off and land for the first time. Plus, you get the best views of Hong Kong around. The membership entrance fee for the club is HK$50,000; expect to pay a further HK$100,000 for your private licence. Check out www.hkaviationclub.com.hk

A+ Pilots: one of the coolest clubs there is

A- If you've got the time it's probably cheaper to do it in Australia

Sky-high daredevil

Fancy a thrill worthy of a James Bond flick? There may be something in Macau for you that's hard to walk away from – if you're willing to take the plunge. Macau Tower's SkyJump is waiting for people who want to get their blood really pumping. It lets you enjoy a 20-second free fall from the 233-meter walkway at the top of Macau Tower. A mere HK$488 the next time you're at Macau Tower.

A+ One trip you'll never forget

A- The photos people take of you might not be so flattering

High on massage

For jet-set relaxation try the new spa package that puts you on a helicopter to Macau. The deal includes a body scrub and aromatherapy massage from Spa Philosophy and if that's not enough, you can quaff champagne along the way. You'll have time to linger at your leisure in Macau for sightseeing and shopping, or hop straight back to the bright lights of Hong Kong. Only HK$2,668 for a spa treatment that will have you floating! Call +853 728 330 for details.

A+ There can be no better beginning to a night on the town

Sky high dining

Take your next dining experience up – way up – to the top of the Island Shangri-La hotel in their fabulous restaurant, Petrus. Serving the best contemporary French cuisine, Petrus is frequently rated among the finest hotel restaurants in the world. Can you afford it? Can you afford to miss it? Call 2820 8590 for reservations.

A A dinner that will sweep a special someone off his or her feet
