Early adoption

Early adoption of the standards is permitted, though as a matter of practice, it is not explicitly stated so in the standards.

Paragraph 26 of the Amended Preface to the Hong Kong Quality Control, Auditing, Review, Other Assurance, and Related Services Pronouncements states that "the scope, effective date and any specific limitation of the applicability of a specific Hong Kong standard is made clear in the standard. Unless otherwise stated in the Hong Kong standard, the member is permitted to apply a Hong Kong standard before the effective date specified therein."

Given that the Institute has adopted and issued the standards on auditor reporting and auditor's responsibilities relating to other information in August, the Auditing and Assurance Standards Committee is of the view that all of the above standards should be adopted and implemented as a package. This is to avoid confusion to users if some, but not all, of the new requirements in respect of auditor reporting and auditor's responsibilities relating to other information are implemented in the circumstances where there is early adoption. In addition, the revised standards are inter-related with each other and accordingly it would be practically difficult to adopt them on a piecemeal basis.

While many of the new and revised auditor reporting requirements relate solely to reporting, changes to HKSA 570 (Revised), HKSA 720 (Revised) and HKSA 260 (Revised) will also affect auditor performance. Auditors need to allow a reasonable period for implementation preparation (including training and changes to firms' audit methodologies).

Auditors are reminded to discuss the implications of early adoption with their clients.
